Prof. Rodman Sullivan, and Prof. Harry Best will give lectures tonight at the University Training school auditorium on Relief and the Federal Public Works Program.

W. Emmet Milward, president of the Blue Grass Automobile club is chairman for the evening.

Mr. Harry Best, professor of sociology, will discuss "Relief." He will tell about the associated charities and local government relief measures. Professor Sullivan, in the second part of the program, will give a lecture on "Public Works." He will give the historical development in business cycle theory, discuss the NRA plan, and the 30 per cent gratuitous loan at low rate of interest. The difficulties, the legal obstacles, the execution of program slow will then be related. After this Mr. Sullivan will tell of the effect upon capital goods industries, the immediate and long-run effects, and the stabilization of industry. He will then give the summary of the effects of Relief and Public Works program upon industry and unemployment.

Open forum will be held, in which anyone who wishes may ask any question concerning the subject. The public is invited to hear the lectures.

UK Stroller Alumni Will Hold Meeting

Stroller Alumni, composed wholly of members of alumni of University of Kentucky's dramatic organization, will hold their annual meeting at a breakfast at 11 a. m. Thanksgiving day in the Lafayette hotel.

Heretofore, dinner meetings have been held, but it has been deemed advisable to change the time as a breakfast meeting will suit the Stroller alumni better.

The officers of the organization are: Herndon Evans, Pineville, president; Emory L. "Frisky" Frazier, attorney and clerk of the United States Senate, of Whitesburg, vice-president; and Bob Mitchell, of Stevens Delivery service, Louisville, secretary-treasurer.

Presidents of all sororities are requested to meet in the Kentuckian office, room 54, McVey hall, at 5 p. m. today.

An informal meeting of Omega Beta Pi, honorary pre-medical society, will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the Science building to discuss prospective pledges for the organization.

Pullman Porter Is Surprised By U.K. Homecoming Crowd

By HELEN ALFREY

"All off to Lexington. Lexington next stop!" drolled George, the dusky Pullman porter who was all smiles today, for his car was filled to its capacity and a savory turkey dinner was waiting for him at the end of his run.

And then the scramble started. George's smile faded and his eyes dilated as all of his 31 passengers began to rush violently in an effort to get their baggage together.

"Porter, get my bags!" "Here, brush my coat!" "Why didn't you say we were nearly here?" Where's my hat?" They all began to yell and demand attention at once.

"How cum yo' folks all goin' to Lexington, boss?" the disappointed porter inquired of a jolly old gentleman.

"Why today is Homecoming," he replied, his countenance fairly beaming.

"Homecoming? Yo' means yo' all belongs to one family?" cried the darky, more flabbergasted than ever. "No, no, but it all amounts to the same thing; we're all going to the same place. We all graduated from the good old University of Kentucky. Yes sir, I graduated in '94 and I haven't missed a Homecoming yet," boasted this gallant Wildcat supporter. "Why I wouldn't miss

DUO-PIANISTS ON VESPER RECITAL

Miss Pike and Mrs. Bradley,
Both of Georgetown, Will Appear at Memorial
Hall Sunday

GERMAN WORKS CHOSEN

A two piano recital will be the feature of the Vesper program, Sunday at 4 p. m. in Memorial hall. Miss Caroline Pike and Mrs. Lewis Bradley, both of Georgetown, will be guest artists.

Miss Pike, well-known in local music circles, is head of the piano department in Georgetown college, and has appeared before Vesper audiences at least once during each season since they were inaugurated several years ago by Doctor McVey. Much of her popularity was gained through her fine technique, brilliant execution, and tactful program arrangement for radio concerts for the University's extension studios.

Mrs. Bradley, organist of the First Presbyterian church in Georgetown, has appeared in conjunction with Miss Pike on many of her programs and is equally as talented in every respect. The work of these musicians done together has always been the highlight of any musical program. She, too, appearing in programs from the University studios has gained much popularity.

The program presented Sunday will contain works of only German composers, but promises a delightful two hours of entertainment. The welcome diversion to a two-piano recital by two artists, experienced in working together should prove to be one of the best Sunday Musicales of the entire season.

SUKY WILL HOLD FINAL PEP RALLY

Annual Beer-Keg Ceremony
Will Take Place Between
Halves of Kentucky-Tennessee Game

Suky circle will sponsor the final football pep meeting of the year at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow on the football practice field adjacent to Stoll practice, preceding the Kentucky-Tennessee annual classic on Thursday, according to J. B. Croft, head cheer leader. Plans have also been made for the annual beer-keg ceremony to take place between halves of the game on Thanksgiving day.

The main feature of the pep-meeting will be a huge bonfire at which the letters "K" and "T" will be burned in effigy and the presentation of the Kentucky and Tennessee football teams and coaches to the attendants at the pep rally.

Yells will be led at the rally by J. B. Croft, Lucy Jean Anderson, Miles Davis, and John Haggard. The University band will furnish the music and will probably lead a parade after the rally.

If a parade is held, the participants are warned by Frank Adams, president of Suky circle, to refrain from rushing the theaters, a custom of the past.

Dr. Funkhouser Replies to Louisville Mayor's Inquiry

Believing it unwise to play Centre college in a post-season charity game in Louisville December 9, Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman of the Athletic council of the University, sent the following reply to Neville Miller, mayor of Louisville who had previously wired him concerning the game:

Hon. Neville Miller,
Mayor of Louisville,
Louisville, Ky.

Athletic council of University of Kentucky unwilling to schedule post season game of any sort.

Squad in no shape for such a game after long hard ten game season and players must immediately begin intensive study for mid-year examinations. Appreciate invitation and worthiness of cause, but believe it unwise to extend football season into December.

W. D. FUNKHOUSER,
Chairman, Athletic Council.

Another fact that was pointed out by the committee which hindered a post season fray with Centre was the Southeastern conference's stand against all post season games. Dean Funkhouser's reply to Mayor Miller was the first definite statement made by the University council to the mayor's request or to anyone other than a similar statement given to The Kernel.

Doctor Funkhouser received the following telegram from Mayor Miller:

EXTRA HOLIDAY IS NOT GRANTED

Doctor McVey Makes Decision in Answer to Student Petitions for an Extension of Thanksgiving Holiday

The following communication has been received from the President of the University in reply to the numerous petitions for an additional Thanksgiving holiday:

To The Kentucky Kernel:
I have received a petition signed by a considerable number of students asking for extension of the Thanksgiving holiday. This petition has been given consideration, as every petition will be considered when it is brought to my attention.

In answering the request I may say that the University has a definite schedule of work to do. This is certainly worked out a year in advance. It may also be said that the cessation of the University for a single day is a heavy loss in time and money. The procedure has been to grant a Friday extension when the Tennessee game is played in Knoxville. Thanksgiving Day will be the holiday this year, and I am wishing for all a pleasant day.

FRANK L. McVEY,
President.

MISS MARY HOPPLE

VESPER SOLOIST WINS APPLAUSE

Miss Mary Hopple Stars in Musical Sunday Afternoon;
Varied Program Is Given by Contralto

By HARRISON ELLIOTT

A large, but somewhat skeptical, audience awaited the opening song on the program by Miss Mary Hopple in Memorial hall Sunday afternoon. With the opening song this same skeptical audience almost rose from their seats to salute the young contralto singer. Miss Hopple "brought down the house" with the excellence of her first rendition and maintained that high quality performance throughout the program.

Miss Hopple's opening selection was "O Mio Fernando," a beloved aria from Donizetti's La Favorita. The applause was loud and long, and the recitalist took bow after bow. She then sang a group of German favorites, "Vergehechen Standchen" and "O Leblid." "Wegen" by Brahms, "Ruhe, Meine Seele" by Strauss, and "Der Ton" by Marx. An enthusiastic audience demanded an encore and Miss Hopple sang Gilbert's "Evening Song." The second collection on the singer's program consisted of "The Hills of Gruzia" by Mednikoff; "My Johann" by Grieg; "Moon Marketing" by Weaver; and "Little Cares" by Merwin. The best qualities in the singer's voice showed themselves in these short but difficult numbers.

The last group of songs on the recital included "The Three Cavaliers" by Schindler, "Twilight" by Glen, and "Song of the Open" by Laforge. The recitalist concluded her sparkling program with a novelty song "The Cuckoo."

CONTESTS PLANNED

Prof. W. Patrick, director of the University Extension department, announced yesterday that the department is sponsoring a number of educational activities this year throughout the state.

Correspondence instruction and extension class instruction come in for a large share of the work. The large extension centers promoted by the department are in Louisville, Covington, and Ashland, with smaller centers in some 25 cities and communities in the state. Five hundred students are enrolled in the Louisville center and approximately 100 each in Covington and Ashland.

Correspondence instruction and extension class instruction enroll, in formal University classes, approximately 1500 to 2000 students annually. This semester the estimate given out by the department is approximately 1,100 students, with a prospective enrollment for the year of 1,500 individuals.

JUDGING TEAM WILL LEAVE FOR CHICAGO

Members of the Kentucky championship livestock judging team of the 4-H club from Madison county are practicing on judging beef cattle, sheep, hogs, and horses today at the Experiment station farm. The team will leave Thursday for Chicago where it will represent Kentucky in the International Livestock judging contest. J. L. Miller, alumnus of the College of Agriculture, is coach of the team. Members of the team are Eugene Todd, Edward Congleton, Thomas Jenkins, and Thomas Moberly.

FIGHTING TEAM IS PROMISED BY COACH GAMAGE

Drastic Alterations in 'Cat
Lineup Made for Tilt

SOPHOMORES HAVE SEVERAL POSITIONS

Nearly All of Reserved Seats

"Daddy" Boles

By HENRY McCOWN

Carrying out his promise to place a "fighting" team on the field, Harry Gamage, making his final bow as head coach at the University, has drastically altered his lineup and will place six or possibly seven former second and third stringers in his starting lineup when Kentucky's Big Blue takes the field against the powerful University of Tennessee Volunteers at 2 p. m. Thanksgiving day on Stoll field in the final football game of the season.

In an effort to find a combination that will "click" against the Vols, the coaching staff has been kept busy ever since the Tulane game, shifting its charges to various positions. Jim Darnaby, the Wildcats' utility man who played a half-back position against Tennessee last year, was used as a center last week, but has been shifted back to a guard position and will probably start the game in that capacity. Ernie Jones, Kentucky's "Iron man" center who has played the greater part of every game and the whole part of most of the games this season, has been kept out of practice for the last few days because of an infected leg, but there is a possibility that he will be in shape again in time for the game. If not, Bob Dickey, a 210-pound sophomore, will play his position.

At the other guard position will probably be Orah, another big sophomore who has shown a marked improvement within the last few weeks. Wagner and Parrish will probably hold down the tackle berths, with Frye, Rupert, and Long will alternate at the flanks. Another man who has been converted from a halfback to a guard with good results is Joe Huddleston who will probably see plenty of action against the Vols. The

COPIES OF FAMOUS PAINTINGS DISPLAYED

Facsimile color reproduction from famous paintings will be on exhibition at the Art Center tomorrow from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. It was announced today by Professor Edward Rannels, head of the art department.

These color prints are of the highest quality and give one an idea of the original paintings themselves. Professor Rannels has pointed out, and their exhibition is an opportunity which all those interested in pictures will want to know about.

THEATER DUCATS TO BE GIVEN OUT

Members of Two Fraternities and One Sorority to Get First Allotment of Tickets from Amusement Company

Theater tickets for the Strand, Ben Ali, and Kentucky theaters will be distributed to members of Alpha Delta Theta sorority and Alpha Lambda Tau and Alpha Sigma Phi fraternities tomorrow, according to announcement by Gordon Burns, president of the Interfraternity council.

With the abolishment of rushing of theaters this fall, the Board of Directors of the Phoenix Amusement company decided to show their appreciation by giving free tickets to students at the University. The movement to abolish theater rushing after pep meetings and after the return of football and basketball teams from victories away from home, was sponsored by the Interfraternity council and Suky circle.

Over a period of 13 weeks, tickets will be given to each fraternity and sorority, independents in the men's dormitories and women's dormitories and other independents on the campus. One sorority and two fraternities will be given tickets each week. Every three weeks, a different group of independents will be given tickets; first, those in the women's dormitory, mens' dormitory, and finally other independents on the campus.

The tickets will be given to fraternities and sororities in alphabetical order but will be good at any time. Arrangements for the distribution have been made by Al Watson, assisted with the Phoenix Amusement company, and Morgan Elliott, manager.

Worship Service Is Planned for Tonight

"For What May We Be Thankful in 1933?" Is Topic of Address

"For What May We Be Thankful in 1933?" will be the subject of a talk by Rev. George Heaton tonight at 7:30 p. m. in Memorial hall at a Thanksgiving worship service sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. for all U. K. students and faculty members.

Mr. Heaton, pastor of the Felix Memorial Baptist church, is leader of the Pitkin club and is widely known for his work among students. Lois Robinson, chairman of the Y. W. worship service committee, and Elizabeth Hardin, music chairman, have charge of the program. The hall will be decorated in fall colors, with orange candles and cornucopli filled with pumpkins, fruit, and other Thanksgiving decorations.

The program, over which Lois Robinson will preside, is as follows: Organ prelude, Elizabeth Hardin; "Softly Now the Light of Day," by the choir; Scripture, Psalm 100, the Thanksgiving Psalm, by Lois Robinson; Prayer, Lois Robinson; "For the Beauty of the Earth," choir; "For What May We Be Thankful in 1933?" by Reverend Heaton.

Y. W. C. A. Will Give Baskets to Needy

Twelve Thanksgiving baskets, contributed by members of the Y. W. C. A., have been made up by the Student Service committee of the Y. W., under the direction of Rebecca Dudley, chairman of the committee.

The baskets will be taken to families whose names were given to the committee by the Family Welfare society. Baskets will be delivered Tuesday and Wednesday at 4 p. m. Members of the Social Service committee who wish to help deliver the baskets may meet at the Woman's building at that time on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The committee has also made scrap books for children at the Shriner's Crippled Children's hospital, and collected clothes for the Junior League Day nursery.

The Dutch Lunch club will meet Friday at noon in Patterson hall recreation room. Ruby Dunn and Tom Scott will present a program of vocal music.

Student Benefit Fund Will Be Established

An emergency fund for the benefit of needy University students will be established. It was decided at the last meeting of the Women's Administrative council, Tuesday, November 21. The meeting was held in the Women's building and was presided over by Lois Robinson, president of the council, and recorded by Rebecca Dudley, recently elected secretary.

The emergency fund will be provided for by a $2 contribution collected from each women's organization on the campus. The money must be paid to Gayle Elliott, treasurer of W. A. C. on or before Wednesday, November 29. Only students who are recommended by Dean Sarah Blanding, or members of the council will receive support from the fund. The money offered will be given in credit for tuition, books, etc.

Ag Staff Members To Attend Exposition

Six members of the staff of the College of Agriculture will attend the International Livestock Exposition and the meeting of the American Society of Animal Production, Wednesday and Thursday, November 29 and 30, Chicago. The College of Agriculture will exhibit 19 head of sheep at the exposition Monday, December 4.

Staff members who will attend are: Dean Horlacher, Prof. E. S. Good, Dr. W. W. Dimock, Wayland Rhodes, H. G. Sellards, and Harold Barber. Dean Horlacher will judge sheep for the Inter-collegiate livestock judging teams Saturday, December 2, and Harold Barber will judge Dorset sheep December 7.

TRIMBLE WRITES ARTICLES

Prof. E. G. Trimble, assistant professor of political science at the University, has written two articles, which will appear in the forthcoming volumes of the "Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences." The articles are "Prisoners of War," which will appear in Volume 12 of the encyclopedia, and "Military Requisitions," appearing in Volume 13.

Roamin' the Rialto

By BEN BLACK

"Night Flight," which is considered the strongest, most accurate, most dramatic and most human airmail story ever written, came to the Kentucky Sunday for a four-day run. A pilot who has flown the same airmail routes described in the story, and one of the most competent airplane radio experts in America, formed the technical staff which advised Director Clarence Brown in this picture, which concerns the difficult and dangerous airmail routes in South America.

In the strictest sense of the word this film has no plot. The action takes place in less than twenty-four hours; it depicts the inauguration of night flying over the Andes and Pampas of South America. There is no hero, and no villain, unless the elements themselves could be called the villain. John Barrymore, as the director of the airline, is the core of the action. His motto is "The mail must go through," and he sends his pilots out into all sorts of danger with seeming heartlessness, to carry it out. This constitutes the whole of the plot; but the perils encountered by them, and the agony of suspense undergone by their wives, gives occasion for some magnificent acting.

In addition to John Barrymore as Riviere, the cast includes Helen Hayes as Madam Fabian, Clark Gable as Fabian, Lionel Barrymore as Robineau, Robert Montgomery as Pellerin, William Gargan as the Brazilian pilot and Myrna Loy as his wife.

The bill of the Ben Ali includes three feature pictures this week. Today is the last time that Ruth Chatterton in "Female," will be shown. Following "Female," "Walls of Gold" will be presented Wednesday and Thursday.

In "Female" Miss Chatterton, who has posed as a "lady" in a majority of her pictures, portrays an altogether different kind of character. She flits from one man to another in three similar excursions until she meets a man who will not fall for her wiles. Of course she falls for him and in the end renounces her rather unconventional mode of existence and wins him. George Brent, Johnny Mack Brown, Laura Hope Crews and Lois Wilson also appear in the film.

"Walls of Gold," which is taken from Kathleen Norris' novel of the same name, tells the story of a young girl, who in a moment of weakness succumbs to the offers of a millionaire. This so angers the man whom she loves that he, in resentment, marries her younger sister. She then marries her wealthy suitor herself. How she finally untangles the tangled threads of her happiness leads forward to a most absorbing climax.

The featured players in the film are Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Ralph Morgan and Rosita Moreno.

The current attraction at the Strand is "Deluge," which features Peggy Shannon, Sidney Blackmer, Lois Wilson, Fred Kohler and Matt Moore. The film is filled with scenes showing tidal waves, earthquakes and whatnot—all depicting the world going to pot. The principal characters, being among the survivors, carry on a rather complicated plot; but their performance is somewhat dwarfed by the amazing catastrophe scenes.

U. K. HOME EC GROUP WILL GIVE BANQUET

Other speakers included are: Senator Fred C. Van Hoose, Mingo, Ky.; Ted Cooper, manager of the Exall orchards at Paducah; Ben E. Niles, secretary of the society; and Dr. W. D. Valleau, Dr. C. O. Eddy, Prof. A. J. Olney, and W. W. Magill.

CIGARETTES are made of tobacco, wrapped in paper, and they may look alike; but that doesn't mean that they are alike.

Midnight
The air is cool.
The loon breathes eerie notes
Into the night.
Scarcely a tremor
Is in the tree tops.
The wind is tired.
The waters lightly press
The pebbles on the shore.
Weary of the day.
The stars seem dull,
As if they, too, had Seen enough.
I am tired,
Yet cannot sleep.

THANKSGIVING

In time darkened by threatening clouds of adversity, in bleak days of anxiety and despair, in a period of depression and suffering, we give thanks to our Creator for the blessings which He has bestowed upon us. For what have we to be thankful that we are in an age of progress; we are endowed with a leader, President Roosevelt, who is leading us safely through the night; and that our country is at peace with the remainder of the world.

For the food that we eat, the roof that shelters us, we ought to be grateful. For sound minds, healthy bodies, and the spirit that is America, we are indebted to Him. For the modern advantages afforded us, and for our splendid opportunity of obtaining an education by which we are fitted to do man's work we need rejoice.

Even in the depression, itself, a blessing in disguise, we find cause for expressions of gratitude. An all powerful hand shook the world, toppling to destruction mighty towers of finance. Yet, out of the chaos has evolved a spirit of democracy and comradeship never before experienced.

We should exult in the sheer joy of living. But should we set aside but one day each year for giving of thanks? Every day should be Thanksgiving.

A LITTLE COOPERATION MIGHT HELP

Some people complain for good reasons; others complain because of lack of something better to do. Into this latter class fall some members of the faculty of the University, as well as a great number of students. This fact has been well illustrated by various ways during the current semester.

A particular instance of such undue vituperation was called to our attention only the past week when a University professor took up a major portion of the class hour railing a student organization because of a minor, inadvertent error. It seems to us that this time might have been spent much more profitably for all concerned had the said professor saved his personal lather in tete until after class, to say the least.

It is one thing to make complaint to the people or organizations in-involved, and another to go around taking up students' time up-braiding something or someone to disinterested parties merely for the sake of argument or to spread discontent. On a campus such as ours it is highly to be desired that constructive criticism and not destructive criticism be employed.

We want criticism, yes, but make it constructive and to the parties involved and not to classes which are meant for periods of recitation or study. We all are susceptible to making mistakes, but cooperation and a proper school spirit applies to faculty as well as to the student body of any institution.

A DEFINITE PLAN

For more than eighteen months the people of Kentucky have been kept informed as to the work being done by the Kentucky Educational Commission.

Now announcement has been made by James H. Richmond, superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the commission, that its final report has been sent to members of the 1934 General Assembly and distributed to all school districts in the state.

The report has been largely financed by the teachers of the state through the Kentucky Education association; the work has been done by Kentuckians who donated their time and services. The commission's reorganization program represents the best efforts and ideas of those who should be in a position to know the needs of Kentucky schools.

In this critical period, when school systems are collapsing in all parts of the country, Kentucky is fortunate in having a definite plan ready for consideration by its legislature. The fact that this plan has been completed and given to both legislators and the public so that they may have ample time to become familiar with it before the General Assembly convenes is further evidence of the forethought of Kentucky school leaders.

With this concrete plan available, Kentuckians have a definite goal toward which to work. The commission's report points the way forward for education in Kentucky.

KENTUCKY CAN HAVE A CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

The athletic situation at the University of Kentucky is commanding the attention of the entire state. And not only of the state but the eyes of the South also are focused upon Kentucky's football problem. Kentucky never does anything halfway. We have seen this year how her elections were the bloodiest and the most long drawn out, how her relief work is the most unsatisfactory, and her politics the most intricate. And we have long been noted for our excellent whiskey, good tobacco, beautiful women, and fleet horses, for our sportsmanship and our fighting spirit. Kentuckians never say die.

And so when it comes to athletics we have had this year well-nigh a football debacle at the state's chief institution of learning. All that is left is that sportsmanship and the ability to fight. That is a keystone upon which to start rebuilding our athletic program.

Seven years ago when Harry Gamage came from Illinois to Kentucky there were high hopes and bright prospects for a championship football team at the University. There was good material, there was backing, there was seemingly competent training, and certainly much good advice. But Kentucky has never made the grade.

After seven years of trying, no sensational results in football have been produced. There remains only the Kentucky spirit, undaunted and still "taking it on the chin."

Wednesday, head coach Gamage resigned. His resignation was delivered in a sportsmanlike, upstanding manner. He shouldered the blame and took most of the credit for the athletic mess in football at the University.

Now the way is open for a re-arrangement of the athletic affairs in football at the University of Kentucky. The way is open, but the path is not clear. We must have a clear thinking, high minded athletic council, who have only the best interests of the University in mind. Up until now their hands have been tied. Coaches have had long term contracts. Finances have been difficult and players subject to unforeseen misfortunes.

Alumni, friends and patrons of the University have been so wrought up over the athletic affairs at their University that they are willing to help in any way and are now in a receptive frame of mind to help finance the athletic end of the game.

What makes a good football team? There are many elements—good players with an indomitable spirit willing to stand the grind, a loyal student body, an enthusiastic alumni, a cooperative faculty, competent coaches, a broad-minded athletic council, and plenty of money. And there is no doubt but that the finances of football rank equally with the winning of games, and that one is very often dependent upon the other for success.

The future can be contemplated only through the accomplishments of the past. What makes championship football at other colleges? How do other coaches win games? What are the policies and plans at colleges that have successful football teams year after year?

A committee should be selected from the University to investigate this thing. They should survey the methods at only those colleges that are successful in football, they should ascertain the how, and the why, and wherefore that these institutions use to make successful football. After gaining these ideas they should make a symposium of them, and offer them to the University as a yard stick and a guide rule. From the best ideas of other colleges, Kentucky could at least get a working plan. What others have done Kentucky can do.

If it is money, get the money. If it is better athletes, get better athletes. There are legitimate ways. It is the opinion of The Kernel that alumni, and patrons of the University are willing to cooperate to almost any extent to see Kentucky have a championship football team.

A WORTHY CAUSE

Introducing a novel plan this year of having a two week's finance campaign instead of the old method of a one night's canvass, the combined freshman and senior cabinets of the campus Y. M. C. A. will endeavor to personally interview every male student in the University.

The majority of the students will seriously ask, when approached for a small contribution, what the "Y" does on the campus. Of this group there are many who would gladly donate a sizeable sum, if they were acquainted with the work that the organization is doing for the men students of the University. This is a fair and intelligent question and an attempt to throw some light upon the work of the "Y" will be the purpose of this editorial.

The main purpose of the "Y" is to preserve in the minds and hearts of the students a spiritual fire, with Jesus Christ as a background and an inspiration, in order that they might benefit themselves and others by leading sane, well-ordered lives and thus be examples to other students to follow in their foot-steps. Men and women of intelligence and sound logic throughout the world have concurred in their opinion that the United States and all other countries, if they would progress, must take into account a sound moral principle of Christian living, fellowship and service to their fellow men. This the "Y" believes in to the ultimate degree.

To promote a better spirit upon the campus and to foster a feeling of democracy among all students united by a common interest, that of a higher education, the "Y" seeks to sponsor that type of social entertainment which will bring about this desired result. Such a type of entertainment is "College Night," an annual event promoted by the organization in conjunction with the campus Y. W. C. A. More than 900 students attended the festivities held this year in the Alumni gymnasium.

Freshman students are given an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the organization of the University proper through the medium of the "K" book, distributed annually during freshman week by the "Y" and the Y. W. C. A. The "Bible" as it is familiarly known, contains facts, figures and fancies relating to the institution, which would be the greatest interest to those matriculating at Kentucky. The service rendered is appreciated by all receiving the little blue books.

In addition, the "Y" promotes discussion groups in the various fraternities, rooming houses and dormitories. In this way students are given an opportunity to express themselves in a form which they term highly desirable over formal modes of discussion. In this manner men are reached where they could not be otherwise.

The "Y" annually asks the men students to contribute a small sum to aid the continuation of this meritorious work. By donating the price of a small luxury, for instance, the cost of a carton of cigarettes, you will be aiding a cause that does not discriminate, seeking to render a high type of service to all students, regardless of class or creed.

The campaign will close Tuesday, December 5. Regardless of the size of the contribution, give toward maintaining an organization that serves you. It is a source of keen satisfaction to know that you helped to support a cause so worthy and deserving.

Er, Ah, Um!

The stranger might easily mistake our University as a school for stuttering and stammering, could he but hear some of us recite in class.

Students Explore Ag Farm

Six Curious Undergraduates Seek and Find Interesting Things on Sunday Trip

By JAY LUCIAN

Six of us started out that sunny Sunday afternoon to indulge in relaxation and exploration on the premises of the Agricultural farm. Of this number there were two students in pre-med, one in law, one in commerce, one in journalism, and the other a football player. Quite a representative group. They were agreeably chosen for these reasons—the med students to explain the anatomical and zoological monstrosities to be encountered; the law student to expound the rules of trespass and ownership; the penurious one to estimate the cost and damage inflicted by the excursion; the journalist to keep the journal; and the football player to do the manual labor and rough-stuff.

The majority of students in the University are unaware of the existence of one of the most important departments of the University, namely, the Ag farm. It is a level piece of land of about 54 acres containing modern, well-equipped buildings. It is bounded on one side by the astronomical observatory, the other side by Rose street, the men's dormitories, and Cassidy field, while the remaining boundaries are the wide-open spaces of Fayette county.

As one of the boys phrased it, "Birds of a feather flock together," and the first thing we encountered

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEFERE

Thoughts while crossing the campus:

The thankful day approaches. I could say a lot about what I'm thankful for, but it wouldn't amount to much and nobody would be interested. It's a nice thing to think that the semester is this far along though. I dare say the thing is significant to most of us is the annual tussle with our old pals, Tennessee. Speaking of the game, some louse swiped my ticket. I thought I had some friends until I tried to find somebody who would lend me his. Kentucky has a considerable number of holder-outers. Stinky!

Just finished reading "Helen." If you want a true and characteristic depiction of modern Hitleristic Germany, read this Vicki Baum story. However, if you belong to the McIntyre school and haven't any use for the author of "Grand Hotel," you might read it anyway, and prove to yourself that the working girl is not just an old American custom.

It takes a lot of half-hearted, idiotic, puny stabs by insipid, would-be sophisticated writers to show us that the old Scandalomonger really writes his column best, and I'm not looking for a quarter.

Funny thing, the attitude of the students concerning the recent resignation of Coach Gamage. Lots of holdyous, and some Beastly-shame's have heard some nasty cracks about the Athletic board in general. At any rate, it furnishes a topic of conversation. Which, as you may have noticed, is something we are badly in need of along about now.

Noticed that some of the professional journalists took notice of The Kernel's recent scoop. Bright idea, I call it, and it ought to have more of them. We ought to have more of them.

Last October we got a letter from one of our ex-editor-in-chiefs. Rather I should say the chief got one. The way the ex raked the powers-that-be in Kentucky who made the Western Gal a colonel is something everybody should know about but it is a little too torrid for me to take up right here. I think the little boy who preferred the single dip ought to be rewarded in like manner, but it really does not matter. He probably already has had his compensation.

They tell me that the Independents are more powerful this year than ever before. They also say it's the result of so many freshmen not going Greek. Must be the logical termination of events, what with the world going Communist in a more or less rapid manner.

Whaddayoucallit: It has finally dawned on me that Annie DOES-N'T live here any more....Coffee and sinkers are best after midnight....Plain, flat-heeled pumps are the latest rage in Paris....the word is pronounced naayeeve.

Any shrieks heard on the campus within the next day or two may be attributed to the Kampus Kat sinking his sharp claws into tender, unsuspecting victims.

Another thing that we have to be thankful for is the fact that our sadly worn auto tires will not blow out so quickly during this cold weather.

EIGHT SENIORS MAKE FINAL BOW AS 'CAT PLAYERS

All Graduating Men Were Outstanding on Team
This Year

ALL ARE LETTERMEN

By NORMAN GARLING
When the final whistle of the Tennessee-Kentucky football game blows on Thanksgiving Day afternoon, amid the darkening shadows that foretell the pending eventide, it will not only ring down the curtain on the 1933 football season for the Wildcats, but it will also bring to a close the colorful college football careers of eight Kentucky players: Ralph Kercheval, Stanley "Pug" Bach, Howard "Dutch" Kreuter, Bu Davidson, Tom Cassidy, Burton Aldridge, Johnny Frye and "Red" Douglas Parrish.

The loss of these eight players will leave quite a hole in the varsity squad for next year, that will be difficult to fill; especially Kercheval's position, insofar as he has been the nucleus around which the entire Kentucky team has been built.

It is believed and with good reason that Kercheval, the potential all-American, is the greatest kicker in the South; in fact it is thought by many that he is the best punter in the country at the present time. Without the great kicking of Kercheval, the Kentucky team would have been scored on many more times than they have been. His best game was against Duke, in which he was a running, plunging line smasher, punting, backfield man that couldn't be stopped except by the pile-driving force of the entire Duke team.

Although not as outstanding as Kercheval, the other seven players have shown that they know what the game of football is all about, and certainly come in for their share of the praise.

"Pug" Bach, who has flashed down the field for many long gains, has helped the Wildcats win the few games that they have won. In the Sewanee game, the second one of the season, "Pug" romped 76 yards down the field for the only score of the game. It is rumored that he will play on the South's team in the South-North game which will be played sometime next month.

"Dutch" Kreuter, the Wildcat captain and right end, has played bang-up football during his three years on the squad. This year's play, however, has not been up to par with the game that he played the last two seasons.

Tom Cassidy, a flashy back, has had a lot of hard luck this year and has not had much of a chance to show his real worth. In the early part of the season Cassidy had an attack of appendicitis which kept him out of the game for a few weeks. In the games in which he did participate, he displayed a vicious effectiveness for hard tackling and blocking.

Until the last few games Frye, an end, has not had much of a chance to display his wares because he is a substitute for Kreuter. Lately, however, Kreuter has been making a bad showing and Frye received the call.

Doug "Red" Parrish, the one man track team, is another man who has been kept out of football because of injuries. During his sophomore and junior years, he was on the side lines due to an injured shoulder.

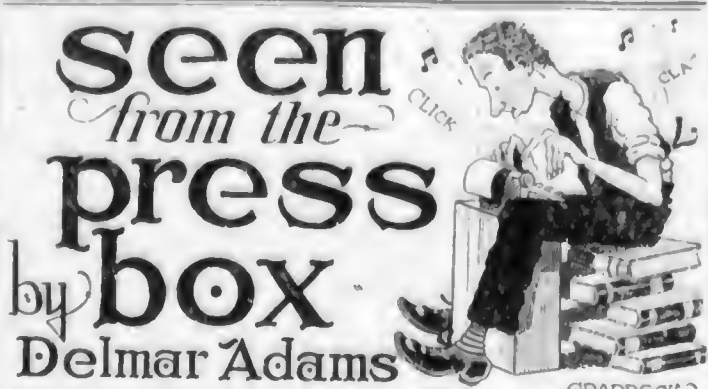

Burton Aldridge, the Wildcat comedian, has been playing quite regularly this year, and had showed great ability as a guard.

Four Are Pledged To Commerce Frat

Four seniors in the commerce college were pledged to Beta Gamma Sigma, national commerce scholastic honorary, Thursday, according to Prof. R. D. McIntyre, president of the University chapter. Eligibility for membership is based entirely on the scholastic standing of commerce students during their four years in the University. The pledges and standings are: Helen Wunsch, Louisville, 2.5; George Peak, LaGrange, 2.5; Phillip McGee, Burkesville, 2.4; and Elbert Adams, Paducah, Ind., 2.4.

Initiation of the new pledges will be held December 20. Definite plans regarding the initiation exercises have not been completed. Prof. L. H. Carter of the commerce college is secretary and treasurer of the fraternity.

Phi Upsilon Omicron and Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural organizations, sponsored a Thanksgiving party from 8 p. m. until 11 p. m. Friday at the stock judging pavilion on the experiment station farm. The program consisted of ten tables of bridge and dancing.

As the season nears an end and the Wildcats have again failed to scale the heights, criticism is heard on every hand; some from one cause, some from another. But perhaps the most rife criticism is from hundreds, yes thousands of alumni of the University, and Centre alumni, who desire to see the two teams struggle on the gridiron once more.

A certain group of Louisville business men, have made the two schools a proposition which will give each institution a 35-35 split, and the rest to charity. The Athletic council of the University sent the mayor of Louisville a telegram declining the offer and setting forth as a reason that the team was not in a good enough physical condition to play the game and that furthermore, the Southeastern conference had a ruling forbidding post-season games.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman of the Athletic council, as a further reason stated that the team had played hard during the long ten-game schedule and they must have time to study for the mid-year exams which come up in January.

There is much truth in the telegram. The team is in a bad physical condition it is true. The Tennessee game may injure more of the boys but some of the injured ones may recover. Still, there are enough reserves to put a team on the field that will give Centre her stiffest battle of the year.

While it is very regrettable to stir up old sores, it seems to us that it is high time that all the ballyhoo put out by Centre partisans should be answered. We feel that the majority of the students of the University wish to see this game played and the majority of the team is also desirous of answering the Centre boasts in the best way—a defeat of Centre.

While we are not in favor of playing the Colonels during the regular season, we are heartily in favor of playing them on December 9, to give them their answer in the only way they can understand—A DEFEAT. The cause of charity is a most noble one, one for which all past differences should be forgotten. The thousands of starving children in the Commonwealth of Kentucky would greatly benefit by this sacrifice of the Kentucky athletic authorities. Students if you desire to play the Centre Colonels for the purpose of charity

LE CERCLE FRANCIA MEETS
Le Cercle Francia met yesterday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the Women's building. Miss Letha Groxell was the speaker. Miss Groxell, at present a student at Transylvania, studied at Sorbonne academy in France during her junior year. Sarah Purnell presided.

Marie Vernon, attractive freshman, received word from her mother to be good, study hard, and lastly...to let the boys alone...We wonder if she is obeying her mother. It is self evident that the boys are not letting her alone.

Another Bluebeard, Huh??
Tridelt Josie Tunis and Kappa Emily Watson, after comparing notes, discovered that neither one is the big moment in Kay John Breckinridge's life...This said that he asked each for her student ticket book...('Takin' another femme to the game, Johnny?)

Random Shots: 'Tis said that two Sigmaks nearly froze on the N. B. S. A. hay ride, while the Kappas were in their usual environment...Buster Hubbard, mighty little man of Sigmamu is reported to have started a war between the females on the third floor of the hall... 'Tis rumored that Tridelt pleb, Martha Bitner, is afraid of competition...It seems that she took DU Cuba Hardin home with her last week-end...Phidelt Bob Hess has to stand for any loss that his pup, Little Phil, accounts for in the Phidelt lodge...Kay Walter Girdler, former house papa of the Tridelt lodge, makes himself very scarce around that house this year...It seems that his attentions are attracted to the Kappa domicile...The Chios can take it...several of their members were seen in the Den recently smoking cigars...In Dening too...Just a bunch of what-tawomen...Howard Smathers, Sigmaky, is very popular at open houses...Gets a rush quite frequently...Kay Joe Hieronymous, it seems is losing his grip...That feminine attraction that he once possessed has not been able to procure a date with a certain Chio...Sigalph Eckles has been suggested as a delightful hostess at the Den...Phidelt Red Davis and Kappa Mary Lally make a nice looking pair... Our nomination for regimental sponsor, Tridelt Margaret Walker, with Kappa pleb, Scoville Bryant and Tridelt Ann Kraft as the honorary majors...Alphagans, Lillian Holmes and Mary Marshall, Tridelts Anna Bain Hillemeier, and Eliso Barbeux, and Kappa Mary Dantzier would make an ideal group of candidates for band sponsor... We believe that Barbeux would like to march with those two (?) drum majors.

It was way back in 1925 that the Wildcats hung their last defeat upon the Tennessee Vols. The score was 23-20. Since then there has been a long drought of Cat victories. But interspersed with the defeats have been three ties which excluded the Vols from cherished Southern conference championships. In 1928 a supposedly weak Cat team held all the big guns of the Vols to a 0-0 draw and the following year, the greatest Cat team in recent years outplayed the Vols, only to get another draw, this time 6-6. And in 1931, the Vols with another great aggregation was held to a 6-6 tie, in one of those games one reads about, but seldom sees.

This year the Cats again are the under-dogs, but all past records are laid aside when these two old foes of the gridiron stack up against each other. With a gigantic crowd of their partisans in the stands, and fighting on their own historic greensward, the Big Blue will be out to salvage their season's record. A win will atone for all their past deficiencies and will return the much prized BEER KEG to the campus, once again.

Coach Gamage is trying a brand new combination for his last game as a Wildcat coach. In this new group are several former reserves, including Hay, Symphon, Long, Sam Potter, Walker, and Parrish. Every one of these men are full of pep and will fight throughout the battle. Their offense is improving, but their defense is not clicking like it did during the early part of the season. Tennessee will not win by the overwhelming score they piled up last season, and their margin of victory, if any, will not be more than two touchdowns.

Many teams have already closed their seasons, but there are a few important games on tap for Thanksgiving afternoon. In the South, two traditional opponents, North Carolina and Virginia, tangle at Chapel Hill. North Carolina is much too strong for the Cavaliers, and the Tarheels should win by two touchdowns. At Roanoke, V. P. I. and V. M. I., two more traditional opponents, will get together. The Gobblers will win by a goodly margin. Only two games are carried in the Southeastern conference, Kentucky and Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Alabama. The Red Elc-phants will win by a touchdown or so, but Vanderbilt is a much improved team. This afternoon Virginia and Virginia Poly tangle at Charlottesville, with a victory conceded by a big margin to the Gobblers. This makes two games in three days for the Gobblers.

CAMPUSOLOGY

Three hundred, twelve years ago, in the year 1621, the Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving day. This Thursday you will be carrying on this memory by eating a turkey dinner, (the age old tradition) and by attending the football game and dance (the newer form of celebration). You may not do either of these things, but whatever you do the chances are that on Friday morning you will need something to clear up a splitting headache or an awful stomach-ache. Just call Ash. 640, and we will deliver to you the desired remedy.

The beer-keg ceremony will be participated in by Frank Adams and J. B. Croft of SuKy circle, and the president of the Tennessee pep circle and another member of the circle. The winning team keeps the beer-keg and it is brought to the game this year by the Tennessee club who have had possession of the keg since the custom was originated in 1924.

Extension Plans Are Announced

year is promoting two special features. One of these is a discussion contest in the seventh and eighth grades and high schools in the state. These pupils will discuss current educational topics on the general theme, "Kentucky's Educational Status and Needs." The department has enrolled in this activity alone approximately 70 per cent of the schools of the state, and a close estimate from the enrollment forms show that approximately 200,000 school children are participating in this educational program.

The other feature is an Inter-collegiate Oratorical contest, open to undergraduate students of 33 colleges in the state. Preliminaries are now under way in the state's colleges and universities, and the finals for this contest are to be held at the University, January 19. The Kentucky Education association is cooperating in their two activities and is providing a $400 scholarship for the winner in the high school contest and $50 in cash prizes for the winner of the Inter-collegiate Oratorical contest. The contest, while designed to discuss educational problems of the state, is not confined to any particular group of educational topics.

The Extension department also is making preparations for High School week which will be observed during the month of April, 1934. This event usually brings about 4,000 high school boys and girls to the University for participation in educational programs in music, debating, speaking, and scholarship contests prepared in the modern objective form.

The extension of the educational work done by the department to the rural schools and "seventh and eighth grade pupils this year will involve about 80 per cent of the schools in the state.

Fighting Team Is Promised by Gamage

coaches are also anxious to give Henry Kelly, 200-pound sophomore guard, a chance to perform against the Tennesseans. Kelly has been kept out of practice most of the season because of injuries and as he suffered a sprained ankle in practice Friday afternoon it is doubtful if he will get in the fray.

In the backfield the coaches will probably use Kercheval, Ayers, Jean, Simpson, Walker, and Hay.

Former members of the first team that will probably watch part if not the entire game from the bench include Cassidy, Kreuter, Pritchard, Aldridge, and others.

In a practice game between the varsity and the freshmen held on Stoll field Saturday afternoon with the varsity using their re-vamped eleven, they were able to trim the yearlings by the score of 25 to 0.
